This has been another busy year for CAES as we have finally completed our work on the old curriculum and seen the end of the double cohort of 2012. The curriculum reform, which saw Hong Kong universities transform themselves from three-to-four-year institutions while accepting an additional 30,000 undergraduates in the process, has been a challenging time for all teachers. This is particularly so for those of us responsible for undergraduate academic literacy support. With almost all our 30 English-in-the-Discipline (ED) courses now launched and our Core University English (CUE) freshman course having completed its third year, we feel our contribution to this process is now well-established.

Because English is the official medium of instruction at HKU, the role played by the Centre for Applied English Studies is at the heart of students’ experience here. Undergraduate students are now required to take 12 credits of English, six of which are in CUE and six in the form of ED. Most of the 3,000 students who enter the University each year take CUE, which is designed to help them bridge the gap between the kind of English they are familiar with from school and the English they will need to navigate their learning in their disciplines. In subsequent years, students take an ED course which requires them to engage with the literacy demands and expectations of their major discipline. The Centre has also expanded its range of out-of-class learning opportunities with a wide range of Moodle activities and short video packages which allow teachers to flip their classrooms and make more use of class time for discussion rather than input.

Since its creation as the English Centre in 1992, CAES’s main role has always been to provide credit-bearing academic literacy support to undergraduate students. In addition, we provide a variety of courses for all research postgraduate students (through the Graduate School), courses for HKU administrative/clerical staff, a large Summer Institute, a Master of Arts in Applied Linguistics, and supervision for our own group of PhD students. We also conduct research into issues related to language education and seek to reach out to the broader educational community in Hong Kong and internationally. Last year we started a one-year, full-time Master of Arts in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) in partnership with colleagues in the Faculty of Education, which has already graduated its first cohort of 30 students. Overall, we taught 5,902 undergraduate students (including 2,879 in CUE), 1,245 students in summer workshops, staff courses and other programmes, and 1,354 students in postgraduate courses. We also conducted 1,477 self-access consultations in our new rooms in the Learning Commons and graduated 33 students from our MAAL programme. We also continued to teach 11 full-time and four part-time students on our PhD programme.

Among the highlights for the Centre this year was hosting the Faces of English conference at HKU. Two years in planning, the event brought over 600 academics and teachers from around the world for three days of professional engagement and cultural activities. With five internationally renowned scholars giving plenaries and over 300 presentations, workshops and colloquia, the conference was one of the biggest academic events in Hong Kong this year, with lion dancers, martial artists, musicians and other performers contributing to a great atmosphere. Our research interests were also demonstrated through our professional development seminar series and the success of several staff in securing research and teaching development grants. Almost all of our 50 teachers attended conferences, several giving plenary or keynote presentations, and many published their research in peer reviewed journals and in books, with titles appearing with Oxford University Press, Routledge, and Bloomsbury.

The 2015-2016 academic year promises to be another challenging and productive period as we continue to refine our courses and expand our out-of-class learning opportunities for students. We have brought three English Teaching Assistants to CAES to assist students with their English and to help promote English as the language of the HKU campus. We have also recently secured substantial funding in collaboration with other institutions and invited various scholars to participate in our professional development programme this year. We will meet these new challenges with the same enthusiasm and attitude towards research-informed language education for which we are well-known.

The Centre for Applied English Studies aims to be recognized as a regional and international leader in the field of second language education through teaching, research and innovation. In this way, we will continue to make a vital contribution to the University of Hong Kong as a leading English-medium university.

English language instruction, in the form of academic literacy support, forms the heart of the Centre's activities. The Centre provided courses for 8,174 postgraduate and undergraduate students last year. Given the distinctive philosophy of the Centre, in which every course we teach is seen as a form of programme innovation, the teaching functions are closely integrated with curriculum development and research.

In 2014-2015, the following courses were offered:

Summer Courses

The Centre offered a wide variety of summer courses from June to August 2015 for both HKU and external students.

Summer Institute for Students

In the 2014-2015 academic year, the Centre continued to offer its own Summer Institute from June 1 to August 14. Eight hundred and twelve students (530 undergraduates and 282 postgraduates) were enrolled in these courses.

List of courses:

- English Pronunciation
- Grammar Improvement for Effective Communication
- English Vocabulary Building
- R.I.S.E – Resume & Interview Skills in English
- Oral Presentation Skills
- Learning English through Films
- Worlds of Language: Learn English through Creative Writing
- Getting the Hang of Idioms and Slang
- Discussing the news
- English for Travel
- Culinary Discourse
- Learning English through Talking about Chinese Culture
- English through/for Fashion
- IELTS Writing
- IELTS Reading
- IELTS Listening
- IELTS Speaking
- Motivational Public Speaking
- Nice to Meet You – Confident Conversational English
- Using the Right Tone and Style in Academic Writing
- Learning English through Everyday Psychology
- Learning English through Drama
- Developing Competence in English: from Interpersonal to Intercultural Communication
- Presenting Your Research
- Postgraduate Writing Skills
- Improving Your Writing through Corpora
- Pronunciation and Phonology for Postgraduate Students

Summer English Support Programme

To help students work on their English skills continuously during the summer period, the Centre offered a Summer English Support Programme from June 1 to August 14 to provide:

1. 30-minute one-to-one English support sessions in which students either practised speaking with a CAES teacher or received feedback on a sample of their writing. The teacher diagnosed weaknesses in the student’s speaking or writing, and advised the student on ways of improvement and self-access resources for future independent learning.
2. One-hour group discussion sessions in which groups of up to eight students practised speaking through discussion of current issues and other topics moderated by a CAES teacher. Students reflected on their own performance, shared ideas for improvement at the end of each discussion and received feedback from the teacher.

Both activities were popular with HKU undergraduate and postgraduate students. A total of 686 individual students (388 undergraduates and 298 postgraduates) attended the programme among which 356 participated in the one-to-one sessions and 374 in the group discussions.

English Courses for the Summer Institute in the Arts and Humanities

Fifty-four students participated in the following English courses offered as part of the Summer Institute in the Arts and Humanities from July 13 to August 7. Eight students were participants of the “Oxford Programme”, organized by Hertford College of the University of Oxford.

Exploring Art through English

In this 6-credit 3-week course students enhance their written and spoken academic English and Fine Art appreciation in a creative, visually-rich, and unique way by describing, analyzing and discussing Fine Art (e.g. paintings, sculpture, and prints). Students are required to visit an art gallery in Hong Kong; they also present art work of their own choice to the class. Course material is based on authentic audio, video, and online resources. A course website provides a base for course materials and tasks, access to art information and national/international galleries and museums, and links to language learning resources.

English Discussion Skills: Critical Discussions on China

This is an advanced speaking skills course that aims to improve students’ ability to discuss critical issues in English. Students are exposed to a range of views on specific issues in Chinese culture and society, and are required to discuss these issues with others. The course uses a number of scholarly readings on China as starting points for discussions, and students are required to do some reading to prepare for lessons. Students will receive focused advice on how to improve their speaking skills, and will be required to do independent work in specific areas where they would like to improve.

English for Effective Communication in Business and Social Contexts

This course aims to develop students’ business and social communication skills. Areas covered include negotiation and telephoning skills and writing business correspondence such as email, business letters and investigative reports; as well as oral and presentation skills in both informal and formal social contexts such as meeting new friends and interacting at social gatherings. Students develop their communication skills in relation to business meetings and cross cultural interactions and are given extensive opportunities to practise and apply the skills through a variety of speaking tasks and an end-of-course social function.

Effective English Summer Programme

In this programme, students have the opportunity to experience the vibrant multicultural environment of the University of Hong Kong and the prestigious collegiate culture at the University of Oxford. The programme focuses on developing students’ speaking and social communication skills and preparing them to apply the skills in real-life contexts. Topics covered include meeting new friends at social gatherings and individual and group presentation skills in both formal and informal social contexts. Students are given extensive opportunities to practise and apply the skills through a variety of speaking tasks and daily life situations, including the authentic use of English in an English-speaking environment.
Both activities were popular with HKU undergraduate and postgraduate students. A total of 686 individual students (388 undergraduates and 298 postgraduates) attended the programme among which 356 participated in the one-to-one sessions and 374 in the group discussions.

Self-Access Language Learning

CAES provided the English Language Advisory Services in Zone R, Chi Wah Learning Commons (formerly the ELRC), and the Virtual English (VE) websites throughout the year to provide self-access language learning opportunities to all HKU students. CAES provision for self-access learning includes one-to-one advisory sessions; and group discussions and workshops held throughout the week on topics ranging from fine art, through current affairs to intercultural communication, with workshops for ELTS, presentation skills, pronunciation and LPATE preparation.

Use of these self-access services is voluntary, so evaluation is carried out based on the take-up of services offered. This year, calculations from the VE booking system have been made differently from the previous years. This year is one student, one count. Therefore, even if one student booked 3 sessions during the year, their visit has been counted as one. Additionally, due to the student protests in Hong Kong from September to December 2014, total figures are lower. CAES staff numbers on Self-access duty for the Advisory Services were also reduced due to timetabling and other factors.

According to the above data collection revision, a total number of 1,477 participants used our services during the year (2,564 in 2013-14). There were 645 individual consultations (945 in 2013-4), and 419 students attended discussion groups and workshops (1,619 in 2013-14).

The Peer-Tutoring Scheme, which is coordinated by CEDARS and CAES, continued to operate in Zone R of the Learning Commons from late September 2014. In 2014-5, 50 peer tutors, who are native or expert speakers of English, provided 413 one-on-one 25-minute chat sessions to fellow students (31 peer tutors in 2013-14). An extra peer tutor chat room was secured and the number of peer tutors was increased this year due to demand for this service.

The VE website provides information about resources in Zone R, Chi Wah Learning Commons and other online services, including, since January 2014, organized links to online resources. The number of visitors to the VE site was 23,244. These can be considered either unique or returning visits.

The statistical software no longer supplies information about length of visit. The most popular pages on the VE website in rank order according to visit numbers were grammar (252,741), English for Professional Communication (92,082) and Plagiarism and How to Avoid it (24,585).

Use of these self-access services is voluntary, so evaluation is carried out based on the take-up of services offered. This year, calculations from the VE booking system have been made differently from the previous years. This year is one student, one count. Therefore, even if one student booked 3 sessions during the year, their visit has been counted as one. Additionally, due to the student protests in Hong Kong from September to December 2014, total figures are lower. CAES staff numbers on Self-access duty for the Advisory Services were also reduced due to timetabling and other factors.

According to the above data collection revision, a total number of 1,477 participants used our services during the year (2,564 in 2013-14). There were 645 individual consultations (945 in 2013-4), and 419 students attended discussion groups and workshops (1,619 in 2013-14).

The Peer-Tutoring Scheme, which is coordinated by CEDARS and CAES, continued to operate in Zone R of the Learning Commons from late September 2014. In 2014-5, 50 peer tutors, who are native or expert speakers of English, provided 413 one-on-one 25-minute chat sessions to fellow students (31 peer tutors in 2013-14). An extra peer tutor chat room was secured and the number of peer tutors was increased this year due to demand for this service.

The VE website provides information about resources in Zone R, Chi Wah Learning Commons and other online services, including, since January 2014, organized links to online resources. The number of visitors to the VE site was 23,244. These can be considered either unique or returning visits.

The statistical software no longer supplies information about length of visit. The most popular pages on the VE website in rank order according to visit numbers were grammar (252,741), English for Professional Communication (92,082) and Plagiarism and How to Avoid it (24,585).
English Language Support for Research Postgraduates 2014-15

The Centre offers all HKU MPhil and PhD students a required core course, five workshops, and the Postgraduate Writing Support Service (via the Graduate School). Nine hundred and forty-eight students attended these courses during the academic year. In addition, research postgraduate students are invited to access all the CAES self-access learning resources.

"Introduction to Thesis Writing" is the core course for research postgraduates. The course aims to raise students' awareness of the linguistic demands of writing a thesis and of possible strategies for meeting these demands. Two specialised versions of this course are offered to students in the Humanities and related disciplines, and students in Sciences and related disciplines. Feedback from students was very positive, with over 86% and 91% of them respectively rated the course and the teachers effective.

The five workshops focus on either speaking or writing skills. The academic writing workshop help students with those specific language points that have been observed to cause most difficulties in writing at thesis level and language use which are of particular relevance to reviewing the work of other researchers. The academic speaking skills workshop provides ample opportunities to students to practise and refine their skills in presenting their research in front of an audience. Two other workshops aim to help students learn how to publish their research. The workshop on conference preparation and participation provides guidance on proposal writing and how to prepare for and participate in conferences. All workshops were rated highly by the students for their usefulness.

The Centre also offers a special English course for selected students from non-English-medium universities. It develops students' ability to produce coherent academic texts with a strong focus on grammatical accuracy. It also aims to improve speaking skills by developing students' confidence, fluency, pronunciation, and awareness of effective communicative strategies. This course continued to receive very high ratings, with over 86% and 91% of students respectively considering the course and the teachers effective.

The Graduate Writing Support Service assists research postgraduates who have identified themselves, or who have been identified by a course tutor or thesis supervisor, as requiring special help with their academic writing.
Specially Funded Courses

Whenever appropriate, the Centre also provides intensive courses for specific target groups by special arrangement. In 2014-15, Centre staff taught the following programmes:

Workplace English Courses for HKU Non-academic Staff

The Centre has been providing English for Professional Communication courses to administrative and support staff at the University since 2008. These courses enhance the written and spoken English of staff at different levels of employment in the University. The Professional English courses provide students with a website containing authentic and language-learning multimedia materials. In 2014-15, 172 staff members benefited from the following five courses offered:

- English for Professional Communication (Intermediate Level)
- Professional English in Focus (Advanced Level): Writing and Grammar
- Professional English in Focus (Advanced Level): Presentations and Pronunciation
- Intensive English Workshop (Listening)
- Intensive English Workshop (Grammar)

Courses / Workshops for Undergraduate and Taught Postgraduate Programmes

During the 2014-15 academic year, the Centre also offered the following courses or writing workshops to provide English support for specific undergraduate and postgraduate programmes.

At undergraduate level:
- Management and Communication Skills for Engineers
- Medical / Dental Terminology Workshops for Dentistry Students

At postgraduate level:
- English for Masters of Common Law (MCL) Students
- MED/MSc Writing Workshops
- Dissertation Writing for Medical Sciences – An Induction Course
- EdD Thesis Writing Workshop
- Dissertation Writing for Year 4 Speech and Hearing Sciences Students
- Dissertation Writing for Master of Dental Surgery and Master of Science – An Induction Course

Research Projects

In 2014-2015, the Centre conducted a wide range of projects, focused in the following areas:

Academic Genres
- Academic publishing: Issues and challenges in the construction of knowledge (K. Hyland)
- Disciplinary and seniority variations in research articles (P. Tse)
- Enhancement of Core University English course through development of eLearning Moodle materials (M. Legg, K. Pat, K. Ho, L. Wakeland, C. Tait)
- Genre, discipline and identity (K. Hyland)
- Textual and rhetorical interaction in engineering undergraduate writing: An activity theory analysis (K. Ho)

Academic Literacy
- Plagiarism: Awareness, avoidance and assurance (D. Gardner)

Assessment
- Assessing in-class participation for EFL: Considerations of effectiveness and fairness for different learning styles (P. Croadhwaite, D. Bailey, Cheongju University Language Education Center; A. Meeker, Texas Tech University)
- Assessing reflection and independent learning (K. Lau)

Autonomy and Language Learning
- Evaluating a self-access centre’s effectiveness and efficiency: A case study (D.D. Choy)
- Principles for the effective integration of self-access language learning into taught English courses (E. Law)

Discourse Analysis
- A study of L1 and L2 tutors’ and peer tutors’ advice in writing consultations (C. Lee)
- A study of question and answer sessions in academic presentations (A. Chan, L.K. Tse, L. Wakeland)
- Triad discourse in Hong Kong (P. Wong)

English-in-the-Discipline
- Evaluation of the implementation of an English-in-the-Discipline course for Speech and Hearing Sciences students (N. Fong, K. Yung)
- Fostering sustainable learning through English-in-the-Discipline (K. Yung, N. Fong)

- Remediating Chinese EFL speakers’ pronunciation difficulties (M. Yeldham)

Postgraduate Writing
- Preparing PhD students to write literature reviews in their disciplines: A preliminary study (L.L.C. Wong, E. Martyn)

Technology in Language Teaching and Learning
- Corpora and written academic English (K. Hyland)
- Improving writing through corpora (P. Crosthwaite, L. Cheung)
- Supporting learner autonomy and diversity using technologies (L. Wong)

Vocabulary Teaching and Learning
- An investigation into the effectiveness of mental imaging in the acquisition of academic vocabulary (L. Chan, H. Wong, T. Ip, C. Ng)
- Evaluation and revision of the academic vocabulary Moodle for the Core University English Course (CUE) (L. Chan, E. Kwan)

Funding
Funding for the projects came from various sources including the Internal Research Grants, Teaching Development Grants, the Seed Funding Programme for Basic Research and Small Project Fund from HKU and Korea TESOL Association.

Professional Development

Professional development which is contextualized in individual practice and closely linked to the day-to-day professional concerns of the Centre has always been a part of the Centre’s distinctive profile. In 2014-15 we continued to run our highly successful series of CAES Seminars. Staff also participated in conferences around the world, several as keynote or plenary speakers. A number of staff members completed their doctoral studies or are moving towards completion. Other staff were awarded prizes for their work and obtained research grants. Several staff members are engaged in activities with journals and international bodies such as TESOL which both increase the influence and profile of the Centre while professionally developing the staff members involved.

Research and Publications

The Centre encourages research and publishing to foster scholarly activity and professional development among its staff and to contribute to the world-wide dialogue on key issues in applied linguistics, academic literacy and language education. Centrally, research informs curricular development. The Director of the Centre was the founding co-editor of the Journal of English for Academic Purposes and is now co-editor of Applied Linguistics, a leading journal in our field. The Centre publishes the Asian Journal of Applied Linguistics, of which the Associate Director is the editor. Other researchers at the Centre also serve as editors or reviewers for international journals and publishers. Recent output includes articles in publications such as Language Learning, Journal of Second Language Writing and TESOL Quarterly. Centre teachers have also contributed to the organization of conferences and given plenary and keynote addresses. Such activities are supported by funding from a range of sources such as the Research Grants Council and Teaching Development Grants.

Centre staff published the following items from July 2014 to June 2015:

Staff Publications

Boyton, S.D.

Chan, L.S.W.

Crosthwaite, P.R.

Gardner, D.P.

Hyland, K.L.

CAES Committees

CAES operates a set of in-house committees with clearly defined roles in order to streamline operations and allow for more effective management. The key committees are: the Programme Coordination Committee, the Teaching and Learning Quality Committee, the Research and Professional Development Committee and the Publicity and Outreach Committee. Their roles and their major work in 2014-2015 are described below:

Programme Coordination Committee

Chair: Liz Samson/Miranda Legg
Secretary: Icy Tsang

Members:

Simon Boynton
Ken Hyland
Joanna Lee
Jane Stokes

Lisa Cheung
Jon Hui
Louisa Chan
Clarence Wang

Natalie Fong
Sam Cole
Daya Datwani
Lillian Wong

The Programme Coordination Committee (PCC) consists of the Programme Coordinator for each university faculty who is responsible for the related CAES undergraduate courses. The committee acts as a forum for interpreting University curricula regulations and policy and for coordinating and sharing course implementation issues.

By the end of the 2014-15 academic year, CAES staff have successfully implemented 29 of the 32 courses written for the new Four-year Curriculum. This past year, the committee members have continued to improve courses as they are implemented, in the light of student feedback and through collaboration with faculty teaching and learning representatives.

Next year, the committee will be focusing on further improving courses, gathering and acting on quality assurance feedback from students, teachers, external examiners and faculties and sharing best practices amongst members.

Research and Professional Development Committee

Chair: Lillian Wong
Secretary: Sunny Kwok
Advisor: Ken Hyland

Members:

Angela Chan
Polly Tse
Laura Wakeland
Ashley Hazell

Natalie Fong
Sam Cole
Daya Datwani
Joshua Rendell

The Research and Professional Development Committee (RPDC) encourages and strengthens a culture of continuous development in research and professional practices within the Centre.

In 2014-15, 12 research seminars and professional development sessions and workshops were organized to facilitate teaching and support colleagues’ research interests. Details can be referred to p.15-16.

The RPDC website (http://caes.hku.hk/rpdc), which provides information and resources that help enhance faculty teaching and learning represents. The committee acts as a forum for interpreting University curricula regulations and policy and for coordinating and sharing course implementation issues.

The RPDC continues to conduct immediate reviews of courses which receive course effectiveness scores below a mean of 60. The TLQC also continues to run the Staff Student Consultative Committee (SSCC) meetings after each semester to gain student feedback on CAES courses.

Over the next academic year, the committee will continue to strengthen the Centre’s quality assurance data gathering mechanisms and will work more closely with the Programme Coordination Committee to achieve this aim.

Publicity and Outreach Committee

Chair: Ken Lau
Secretary: Alex Sum

Members:

Louisa Chan
Julie Ng
David Gardner
Ken Ho

David Gardner
Parco Wong

The Publicity and Outreach Committee (POC) primarily aims to raise the profile of and create a positive image for the Centre, as well as to make its name known to the HKU and Hong Kong communities.

In 2014-15, POC was involved in a range of publicity events. In addition to making a contribution to the usual publicity events such as the University Information Day, the Faculty of Arts Open Day and the Pathfinders Exhibition, we helped co-organize the second HKU English Public Speaking Competition with the Campus Toastmasters Club. We were also actively involved in knowledge exchange activities to contribute our expertise and knowledge to the society. ProWriteHK, an online interactive website (http://caes.hku.hk/prowritehk), was developed to help enhance the professional writing skills of the general public and business executives. We continued to reach out to the community by organising several rounds of visits to our Centre for more than 60 students who benefited from the various activities which aimed at improving their English speaking skills and building their confidence in using English.

In the new academic year, POC will continue its mission of making the Centre’s courses and services known to students, academics and Hong Kong community through various channels. In addition, we will further strengthen our involvements in the area of knowledge exchange.

CAES Committees

In the coming academic year, the RPDC will continue to organise research seminars and professional development sessions that support colleagues in exploring their interests and provide opportunities for further development. Two project ideas will be explored to expand research and professional development opportunities and resources for colleagues and promote areas of excellence in CAES.

Teaching and Learning Quality Committee

Chair: Miranda Legg/Phil Smyth
Secretary: Chris Sun/Katrina Shum

Members:

Patrick Desloge
Jon Hui
David Gardner
Joanna Lee

The role of the Teaching and Learning Quality Committee (TLQC) is to review the teaching and learning quality of all CAES courses and to disseminate teaching and learning quality information to students, staff of the Centre, the university at large, and the University Grants Committee. TLQC facilitates new initiatives related to teaching and learning quality within the Centre and aids collaboration and exchange of good practice amongst teachers.

In 2014-15, the TLQC began a process of phasing out quality assurance reviews of courses, which duplicated some of the responsibilities of external examiners, and replacing them with a course modification review process. The aim is to support Programme Coordinators with changes to courses and to ensure changes are aligned to CAES’ assessment policy.

The TLQC continues to conduct immediate reviews of courses which receive course effectiveness scores below a mean of 60. The TLQC also continues to run the Staff Student Consultative Committee (SSCC) meetings after each semester to gain student feedback on CAES courses.

Over the next academic year, the committee will continue to strengthen the Centre’s quality assurance data gathering mechanisms and will work more closely with the Programme Coordination Committee to achieve this aim.
